Contemporary Design in Historic Centres

A necessity for the present, a challenge for the future

International Workshop in Ferrara, Italy, 11th - 20th of April 2015

REGISTRATION FORM

Changes in the physical structure are inevitable and have been continuing from ancient times, but there is the need of control over these changes in order to reach a compromise between sustainability and restoration. For this reason sustainable architecture and heritage conservation needs to find a common field of operation where they could meet needs and criteria in order to create a better future for next generations. The workshop will be focused both on sustainable architecture issues and conservation approaches in order to highlight best practices and spread out European visions of renowned designers.

The course structure is made up of an interesting mix of lessons, design exercises and day trips.
